

IMPALED BY THE POLE OF A BREWERY TRUCK.

Fatal Injury to Miss Hayden in a Collision of Wagon and Trolley Car.

Six Others Badly Injured, and Two Horses Killed, as the Result of an Accident.

One Horse Jumped Between the Seats, Striking Down Passengers with its Hoofs.

NECK OF THE OTHER HORSE BROKEN.

The Driver Could Not Control the Animals, and Full Tilt They Dashed into the Car Filled with an Outline Party.

As the result of a runaway in Jersey City yesterday, in which a brewery truck ran into a street car, seven persons were badly hurt, as follows:

BENN, MRS. AUGUSTA, twenty-two years old, of No. 217 Montgomery street, Jersey City; kicked on head by one of the horses.

BENN, WALTER, six years old, her son; also kicked on head.

HAYDEN, MISS NELLIE B., twenty-eight years old, of No. 403 Stayessant avenue, Brooklyn; left cheek torn away by truck pole, also internally injured, with dis-

HOGAN, MRS. MARGARET, of No. 227 Grand street, Jersey City; injured about the knees.

MARKS, HAROLD HAYDEN, five years old, of No. 406 Stayessant avenue, Brooklyn; arms and legs bruised.

SCHAFER, MRS. EFFIE, seventy years old, of No. 82 Webster avenue, Newark, N. J.; bruised about body and limbs.

WILBERG, MRS. JOHN, of No. 127 Ninth street, Jersey City; injured internally; right knee dislocated.

Two gray horses, attached to a brewery truck belonging to Christian Feigenspan, of Newark, the driver trying in vain to control them, dashed down the Communipaw avenue hill, just before 2 p. m.

Along Grand street, loaded with a happy crowd, bound for Bergen Point, bowed an open trolley car of the Bayonne line. The motorman, Albert Radell, of No. 700 Ocean avenue, as the car approached the "Junction," where Grand street crosses Communipaw avenue, heard the clatter of the approaching runaway. He shut off the current, then applied his reversing lever, but too late.

Th horses and heavy truck banged into the car about the middle. The long pole of the truck was forced between two of the seats. The mule horse, plunging wildly, followed the pole. His mate, with snorts of terror, reared, then slid along the step on the side of the car.

When the truck struck the car the driver, William Beck, twenty-six years old, of No.
604 Ferry street, Newark, was pitched from his seat with flying cables.

Inside the car the horse kicked wildly.
The passengers in the seats where the pole had entered were unable to get out. They lashed against the bar at the other side of the car, with blood streaming from a terrible gash in her cheek, where she had been struck by the pole and for a few minutes impaled, was Miss Nellie B. Hayden, twenty-eight years old, of No. 403 Stayessant avenue, Brooklyn. She was fatally hurt. At her feet lay Harold Hayden Marks, her five-year-old nephew. He had been injured about the arms and legs and internally.

In the adjoining seat, at the end of which the other horse pawed madly, was Mrs.
Augusta Benn, twenty-two years old, of No. 217 Montgomery street, Jersey City.
With her son, Walter, six years old, her infant daughter and her mother-in-law, Edna A. Schaffer, seventy years old, of No.
82 Webster street, Newark, she had started for an afternoon's outing.

As the horses with their front feet high in air, was forced into the car, one of its hoofs struck Mrs. Benn upon the forehead.
The baby, which lay between her arms, escaped injury, but little Walter was also struck by the pawing hoofs. Mrs. Schafer was crushed against the seat and badly bruised.

Mrs. John Wilberg, of No. 127 Ninth street, was hurt on the right knee and Mrs. Margaret Hogan, of No. 227 Grand street, was injured internally.

Policeman Fred Herring, who was on duty at the intersection of Grand and Communipaw streets, seized the struggling horses by the bits and forced them back. One, as it swung round, dropped dead. Its neck had been broken. The other also fell over, with badly crushed legs. Both were shot.

Policeman Herring sent in a hurry call for the removal of the horse. He also sent to the City Hospital and St. Francis Hospitals for ambulances.

Mrs. S. C. Smith, of No. 14 West Fifty-first street, Bayonne, a passenger, had in the meantime hurried to Miss Hayden's aid.
She was just in time to receive the latter's unconscious form in her arms as she fell backward into the street.

Drs. Mutart and Broderick, who live close by, cared for the worst injured in Clark's drug store, until the arrival of the ambulances. Many others, whose names were not obtained by the police, hurried away without receiving treatment.

Miss Hazard and her nephew were taken to the City Hospital. Her left cheek was being horribly torn by the wagon pole, her jaw bone smashed, her nose broken and she was injured internally. Her condition is critical. Her nephew is not badly injured. His father called at the hospital last night.

Mrs. Benn, her children and mother, were taken to the former's home in a patrol wagon, and Mrs. Wilberg to St. Francis's Hospital.

The badly wrecked car was taken off the line for repairs.

Mrs. Hagan was assisted to her home by H. F. Gallagher, of No. 214 Wayne street, who worked like a hero in extricating the miserable passengers.

Beck, the driver, was arrested. He said that a broken trace had caused the trouble.
The brake on the truck, he said, refused to work. Motorman Radell and Conductor William Earl, of Jackson avenue, were also arrested. Justice Douglas will hold an examination to-day.

BICYCLIST RUN DOWN.

Joseph B. Abecasis, an Aged Member of the Stock Exchange, Received Severe Internal Injuries.

Joseph B. Abecasis, sixty-five years of age, a member of the Stock Exchange, while bicycle riding yesterday morning met with an accident at the intersection of Broadway and Fortieth street. He collided with an express wagon of the New York Transfer Company, and was thrown several feet. When picked up he was unconscious. Policeman Barry, of the West Thirtieth Street Station, witnessed the accident, and placed the driver of the wagon, who gave his name as Charles Reddy, under arrest.

An ambulance was summoned, but Mr.
Abecasis refused to be taken to a hospital, and he was removed to his residence at No. 124 Broadway, where he was attended by his family physician. He sustained internal injuries which will keep him indoors for some time.

When arraigned in Jefferson Market Police Court, Reddy said that Mr. Abecasis had run into the shafts of his wagon in endeavoring to avoid a cable car. Other witnesses held that Reddy alone was to blame, and could have averted the collision by turning out. He was held in $300 bonds until July 7, when it is expected the injured broker will be able to attend court.

COLLISION OF A BREWERY TRUCK AND A JERSEY CITY TROLLEY CAR.

The driver was unable to control the animals, and they ran full tilt into the car, the pole and one horse going between two seats. Seven persons were hurt in the accident, one of the horses was killed, and the other had to be shot at once. The driver, motorman and conductor were arrested, and an examination will be held to-day.

FREGOLI SCORES ANOTHER SUCCESS.

Displays His Wonderful Versat-ity in the Operatic Extravaganza, "El Dorado."

Tuneful "Olivette" Revived at the Herald Square in a Delightful Manner.

THE CINEMATOGAPHE A SUCCESS

Changes "In Gay New York" That Have Improved It in Every Respect—Clever Performers at the Various Roof Gardens.

Fregoli achieved another triumph at Olympia's Roof Garden last night, where he presented for the first time, "El Dorado," an operatic extravaganza. It enables the clever impersonator to display his versatility to better advantage than anything he has yet done.

He poses as manager of an operatic company, whose members have gone on to a strike. Rather than disappoint the audience, Fregoli plays the opera himself, impersonating each character. They include a German prima donna, French tenor, colorature, soprano, impersonator, eccentric duc-tist, serpentine dancer, her mother, professor of sciences, stage manager and a clown.

The changes of costume were made with such rapidity that it was difficult to believe the same man was doing the work. Each character was invested with a different voice, which heightened the illusion. The remainder of Haumerstein's bill was made up of select vaudeville features.

An interesting revival of "Olivette" was given at the Herald Square Theatre last night. It is so long since Audran's tuneful production was heard in this city that it partook of the nature of a new opera. Dorothy Morton as the heroine looked pretty and sang delightfully. Hallan Mostyn was a particularly gruff and amusing Captain de Merrimac, and was ably counterfeited by Joseph Sheehan, who sang the part of Valentine. Tom Ricketts and Ben Lodge sustained the other comedy parts, and Flora Finlayson made a positive creation of the part of the Countess.

If New Yorkers had not seen the Vitascope or eidoloscope, the cinematograph, which was exhibited at Keith's last night, would have been a complete revelation.
The pictures are better in many respects and the unpleasant vibration has been almost overcome, but the element of novelty has been killed by its predecessors.

The bathing scene, Hyde Park and mail train were the best of the series of scenes shown.
Gus Williams, the German comedian, was another new feature of the excellent bill presented.

Julius Levy began his farewell week on the stage at Koester & Bial's Roof Garden last night. He will retire to Europe at the close of this engagement, and may never be heard in this country. The veteran comedian was warmly received last night, and played many familiar airs with his accustomed skill. Ugo Blundi, Josephine Sabel, Jenny Valmore and the virtuoso helped in the enjoyment of the entertainment.

Lydia Barry, daughter of Billy Barry, the well-known comedian, made her first appearance in vaudeville at Tony Pastor's Theatre last night. She is a pretty girl and possesses a sweet voice. She sang several selections and was enthusiastically received. Felix and Cain, a pair of fun-makers, made their first appearance this season. The programme was filled with interesting and clever performers.

The American Casino and Madison Square roof gardens had interesting bills last night and all were well patronized.
At the American, Claude Shirley did her X-ray dance. Professor's Pleasure Palace, with its palm garden, theatre and roof garden was also filled, the new ballet being a source of great attraction.
Madison Square Roof Garden presented Lillian Swain as the bride in "In Gay New York," at the Casino last night. She gave a pleasing performance and was heartily cheered in her several songs. There have been several changes in the comedy of late and it is now condensed and improved in every respect.

OPERA HOUSE MATTER FINALLY SETTLED.

Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau's Big Creditors Agree on Reorganization.

Nordica, Jean de Reszke and Melba Will Become Shareholders for Salaries Due.

TRUST FUND TO MEET SMALL CLAIMS.

Opera Will Be Given as Though No Failure Had Occurred and Mr. Abbey Is Very Hopeful of Success.

There will be a meeting of the directors of the Metropolitan Opera House in the office of Lawyer Reeves, at No. 32 Nassau street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to complete arrangements for the re-organizing of the house to the new Abbey, Schoeffel & Grau Company.

Ninety-six per cent of the firm's creditors have consented to the reorganization. The remaining 4 per cent is composed of small tradesmen, whose bills range from $50 to $250 and aggregate more than $10,000.
The made of settlement agreed upon is the issuing of stock in shares for large amounts, and these small creditors will therefore have to be satisfied with a trust fund.

The new company starts without a dollar of debt. The aggregate salaries paid to Messrs. Abbey Schoeffel & Grau will be $20,000 a year. The same employees will be retained and the same artists as usual will appear. There will be no outside ventures, the only interests of the firm being the opera house and the Tremont Theatre, Boston.

William Steinway, as chairman of the Readjustment Committee, has worked in-defatigably and well. F. W. Fowler and Robert Denney were his fellow-committeemen.

Mr. Steinway said yesterday that Mme.
Nordica had given her consent to the reorganization for her $5,000 claim, and Jean de Reszke for his $7,000, and on Saturday Melba's $8,000 claim was settled by cash on the same day.

There will probably be as much demand for subscription boxes as heretofore and the Metropolitan Opera House will continue as though there had been no failure.
Mr. Abbey said that there had been no meeting of the creditors, as stated by a morning newspaper. He was very hopeful.
No definite plans for the future can be announced until after the directors' meeting to-day.

Fought Seven Rounds for a Girl.
St. Paul, Minn., June 26.—Eugene French and Will Hoopner, both of Eau Claire, who were in love with the same girl, fought for her hand yesterday before sixty people at Wheaton Mill, Chippewa. They used four-ounce gloves, the mill being declared a draw after seven rounds. Neither man could stand up without effort when the contest ended.

THEY BURGLAR FOR PIGEONS.

Three Lads Got the Coveted Birds, but Wound Up with the Gerry Society.

Detective Perkins stood on the corner of One Hundred and First street and First avenue on Sunday night, when three boys hurried past him with something evidently concealed beneath their coats. The lads were Daniel Carroll, eleven years old, of No. 1970 Second avenue; Charles Fenger, ten years old, of No. 1987 Second avenue, and Ernest Hamburger, fourteen years old, of No. 73 East One Hundred and Sixth street.

"What have you got under your coat?" demanded Perkins, catching hold of young Carroll.

"Nothing," replied the boy.
The detective pulled the boy's coat open and a live pigeon fluttered up into his face.
The policeman rapped for assistance and the other boys were caught. Each had a live pigeon. The pigeons had been stolen from the store of Louis Werner, in the Hudson Market, which the boys had broken open. The young burglars were sent to the Gerry Society.

SWALLOWED OXALIC ACID.

Mrs. Briggs's Suicide Caused by an Attack of Nervous Prostration.

Mrs. Mary Ann Briggs, of No. 700 East One Hundred and Sixty-second street, killed herself yesterday morning by swallowing a quantity of oxalic acid. She lived with her husband, Henry D. Briggs, an insurance agent. They had two small children.

Mrs. Briggs had been suffering from nervous prostration for several days. She got up early yesterday, went into the kitchen and drank the acid, which had been used for cleaning purposes. She then returned and said to her husband:

"Henry, I've taken poison." She fell in convulsions on the floor a moment later. A physician was summoned, but was unable to save the woman.

HAD TICKETS TO TEAR UP.

William Jones Offered Passes for Sale and Was Arrested.

Detectives Frazee, Jackson and Crystal, of the Macdougall Street Station, in Jefferson Market Police Court yesterday morning arraigned William Jones, thirty-two years old, who refused to give his address.
Jones was arrested as a suspicious person.

The detectives said they saw Jones last Saturday night standing at Broadway and Canal street. He had in his possession about fifty railroad passes which he was offering for sale to people on the street.
When Jones caught sight of the detectives he ran into a barber shop, tearing up the passes as he went. The detectives pursued him and caught him in the act of throwing three of the passes into a closet. The rest had been torn to pieces.

Jones was arrested by two of the detectives while the other recovered the three passes. The officers asked that the man be remanded until they could communicate with J. S. Holmes, superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, who lives at No.
30 East Fifty-first street. The tickets were made out on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, and the detectives wanted Superintendent Holmes to identify the passes.

The detectives in the afternoon reported that Superintendent Holmes was not at home, and that they had telegraphed to Chicago for him. Jones was held, and will be brought before the Magistrate again this morning.
